

The Sportsmen's National Land Trust is a nonprofit 501(c)(3) corporation based in Massachusetts organized by sportsmen, for sportsmen, taking the lead in wildlife conservation, habitat improvement, and guaranteeing public sporting access.

Open spaces are important for replenishing our air and water quality, for continuing our outdoor sporting heritage, and for providing wildlife habitat for hunting and fishing.

The Sportsmen's National Land Trust is dedicated to securing land so that future generations can enjoy the outdoor traditions that American sportsmen have cherished for centuries.

The Goals of the Sportsmens Land Trust are to:

- Preserve open space and wildlife habitat
- Provide sportsmen with permanent access for hunting and fishing
- Promote a conservation ethic and wise use of natural resources
- Improve wildlife habitat through cooperation with other conservation organizations

Proudly show your support of conservation every day by choosing the Sportsmen's National Land Trust Special License Plate featuring a whitetail buck image designed by Massachusetts wildlife artist Ed Snyder.
